

More about Global Tunnelling Experts joint data controller responsibility

Article 26 of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) states that where two or more data controllers jointly determine the purposes and means of processing, they are joint data controllers.

In the event of joint data controllers, the joint data controllers must in a transparent manner determine their respective responsibilities for compliance with the obligations under the GDPR, in particular as regards the exercising of the rights of the data subject and their respective duties to provide the information referred to in Articles 13 and 14, by means of an arrangement between them unless, and in so far as, the respective responsibilities of the data controllers are determined by Union or Member State law to which the data controllers are subject.

Pursuant to Article 26(2), the arrangement must duly reflect the respective roles and relationships of the joint data controllers vis-à-vis the data subjects. The essence of the arrangement must be made available to the data subjects.

Irrespective of the terms of the arrangement, the data subject may exercise his or her rights under the GDPR in respect of and against each of the data controllers.

The "internal" distribution of responsibilities in the joint data controller agreement does not prevent the supervisory authority from exercising its powers vis-à-vis each of the Data Controllers.
